

THE LOST DOG IN THE CITY

By Isabelle, age 10

Once upon a time lived a very happy fun dog, called Lucky, who wanted to go out in the big wide world. He also wanted to muck up everybody's plans, and everybody disliked him because he was so stupid, but he wasn't really he was actually the smartest dog in the world.

Well, the dog was in her basket going to sleep very happily indeed. When her owner came to give her breakfast that was dog biscuits and 2 bones, she went closer to her dog shaking her dog's head like billio.

“What” said the dog.

“Lucky don’t you know what’s happened to you all your hair is pink with yellow spots and it’s all over you.”

“I’m not pink with yellow spots.” said Lucky

“Yes you are.’”

“I am not, you must be dreaming,” said the dog.’

“Wife, are you sure your not sick because I can’t see any pink with yellow dots, I think you need to be taken to the hospital,” said the husband.

So the wife went to the hospital and left the dog behind them tied up.

The dog thought it was a great time to go out in the big wide world and this was her only chance. So she started pulling and pulling at the chain and biting the chain. She soon broke the chain. Then she ran to the garden gate and tried to open the gate she got the gate open and ran out down the street.

She kept running down the street and found a door open and ran in, they were having a birthday party. Then she got lots and lots of rocks and threw them into the cake while the others weren’t watching. The dog slipped round the corner so the kiddies would not see. The children were just going to have the birthday cake and cut the cake. Then they cut the cake and everybody got some especially the birthday girl. The first girl ate her cake and the next and the next and the next ate the cake.

They all said “uuuuu!” and spat the rocks out of the cake the first girl started choking on the dirt which was on the rocks and in know time the room was full of people choking and spluttering with people falling flat on the ground because they were choking on the dirt which was on the rocks.

Then they were all sick and every body was nearly dead, especially the birthday girl. The party was over and all the parents were very sad. The parents were wondering who got near the cake to put the rocks in the cake. While parents were looking everywhere for the person who through the rocks in the cake the dog ran away while it was getting a bit dark.

The dog ran down the street and hopped in a ladies bag that was going to the ball. The lady went on a bus to get to the ball with the dog in her bag. The bus came and stopped at the bus stop. Then the lady hopped in the bus and sat down on a seat. Then the bus went to the ball. The bus stopped and the lady got out. Then the lady opened the door of the ball, put her bag down and went to gossip about other people with her friends at the ball.

The dog got out of the bag and started thinking of something else funny to do like muck up the ball’s plans. Well, the dog thought of something funny to do so he went to a tap at the ball and got a bucket while everybody else danced the handsome dance with there dashing looking men the dog filled the bucket with water and put it on the table of food then knocked the bucket of water over.

The ladies danced all round the ballroom and when they came to the spilt water one by one slipped on the water until the ballroom was full of people lying on top of each other in a big mountain. All the ladies were very horrified because they fell on top of each other.

Then Lucky the dog went over to the table full of food and started eating every little scrap of food off the table also knocking a few peaces of food off the table at the same time. The ladies got up and started dancing with their handsome men again coming round to the food everywhere on the ground as the ladies started slipping again.

The dog started clapping he thought it was so funny and very soon it sounded like it was a circus with the dog like the judge telling everybody what to do. The dog thought it would be better if he'd go than do any thing else otherwise he'd be locked up and told off and Lucky didn't want to get told off so then he went out of the ball then ran down the street again to do more naughty things.

He really had trouble trying to think of what to do next, then he had an idea he thought he'd go to the butcher maybe he'd give me a big, big bone so he went just at the exact place, at the butcher.

Then the dog went to the butcher and stood at the butcher's feet as if he had never got fed in his whole life. He saw the dog and felt for the dog and how hungry he would be so he gave Lucky the biggest bone he had in his shop but there was one problem all the other dogs smelt the bone and came running after Lucky because they wanted the bone to themselves. So that's what happened Lucky was running away with the bone, the other dogs were running after Lucky and the butcher smiling at himself very glad with what he did.

Then Lucky was trying really hard to find somewhere to hide the bone he soon found somewhere to hide the bone, it was in the ladies slipper. Then the dog put the slipper outside under the ground knowing exactly what he was doing. Then the dog ran away as if he didn't hide the bone in the ladies slipper but the dogs knew, they just didn't really want Lucky to know about it otherwise Lucky would come and snatch it off them.

While that was all going on Lucky was sneaking into the butcher's truck and eating all the meat pies, then the butcher came in to the truck and he screamed! and screamed! Then he said to the dog "get out at once!" The dog ran out as quickly as a flash. Then the butcher sighed to himself and started to tidy up all the mess from the dog, chattering to himself.

Meanwhile the dog stopped worrying about what happened, and started to think of what to do next which would be funny. It was, at the beach he wanted to chase a rabbit at the beach he'd go to the beach and do that. Then he would do some rock climbing and then try and find some people camping because then he get some food because they'll have food which he can eat which would be nicer. So that's were he went.

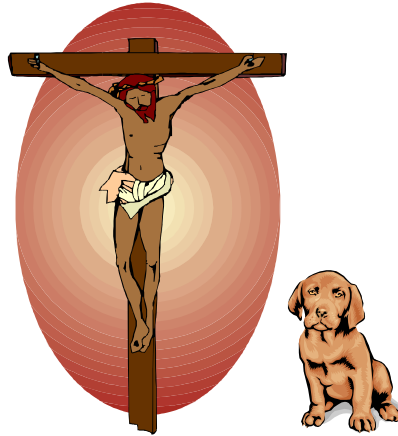

He forgot about chasing the rabbit he just went straight to the rock climbing to get some food at the camp because he was very, very hungry. The dog went to the rock and started climbing the huge rock. Lucky the dog was slipping and falling and stumbling over big, big, big rocks, even small baby rocks, because he was so eager to get some food.

The dog slept till night time waiting for his perfect time to go and get some food. He slept because then he wouldn't be so hungry. The dog was sleeping behind a bush. The dog heard the rustling and shuffling of the people and was thinking it would soon be night time he can eat the food off the table.

It was night time now, so he went out very tired because he hadn't slept for two days and hadn't had any food for two days either. So the dog went saw the table and knocked the table over he liked the food on the so much. After a little while he thought how stupid he had been by knocking the table over because it wouldn't be so easy to get the delicious food on the table.

The dog thought for a minute, now I could either start being good now or otherwise I'll never be good, hmm, I wonder what I can do. I know I'll start being good, know I really do think that's a very good idea because in fact I even think I should say sorry to God I feel really stupid oh I really do, anyway God the only God in the world Jesus, will help me he really will so that's what he did.

Holiday Poems

Didn't we have a lovely time the day we went to China we had some chips and tips and that was the end of our trips tips. We went up the stairs and lost our hairs and that was the end of our brain.
